

My name is Dr. Paul Singh.

I am a graduate of UNSW. I hold the qualifications of MBBS and FRACGP.

I graduated in 1991 and completed my postgraduate training in 1996.

My boxing doctor experience has been over 50 nights of kickboxing experience.

Promoters include Pitbull Grima, Robert Murdoch senior, 6 nights of MMA experience (Promoter Matt Travers).

My ringside doctor training was under the expert tutelage of Dr. Lou Lewis (eminent boxing physician) for 3years. My routine at all fight nights are a pre fight check (bp cardiovascular respiratory limb and neck exam).

This is followed by attendance ringside at all fights-the fight does not proceed until I am seated.

This is followed by a post fight check on both fighters. I place particular emphasis on the loser.

Head injury advice, wounds, noses, ears and areas of bruising are given special attention. In any knockout; they are instructed to abstain from alcohol for 24 hours, have someone drive them home and if prolonged to seek further medical advice from hospital or their LMO. In the time I have been involved with MMA there have been very few injuries that have needed further attention.

Most fights end either by submission or referee stoppage. All the 3 promoters I am currently engaged by run professional shows-and their commitment to their fighters safety is paramount.
